

Upskilling of UM Staff

The University of Malta has been awarded European Social Funds for the project 'Skill development and life-long learning for technical, operational and laboratory staff'.

Through this project, the University will upskill its staff on Technical, H&S, Quality and Management skills. Courses on Quality and ISO standards have started, and will continue when UM restarts normal operations.

*Do you have an example of good QA practice at your unit which you would like use to share?
